FROM THE EDITOR

Dear Shoppers,

At the onset of this summer, we bring you a special issue of DLF Malls Trend dedicated to fresh starts. Think: lighter clothes, glowing skin, easy summer meals, and small updates that make a big difference.

Our cover star this month is someone who is not just one of Bollywood's biggest stars but has also carved out a place for herself in the fashion world—Alia Bhatt. Known for her originality, she is leading the Levi's 'Behind Every Original', global campaign that celebrates the mindset behind original thinking. Her style is simple but never boring. In Alia Bhatt's wardrobe, where nothing feels overdone, yet everything looks put together.

In beauty, short haircuts are having a major moment this summer. We explore how the right neckline can completely elevate the look, with expert tips from Sonali Bhamri of TONI&GUY. We also decode this season's biggest blush trends—liquid, cream, and powder—and talk about the rising buzz around "blush blindness". Plus, dermatologist Dr. Geetika Srivastava shares why your morning skincare routine matters more than ever during summer.

Fashion this season feels light yet thoughtful. From The White Edit, inspired by the Pantone Colour of the Year, to easy kurtas and kaftans from Loom, Mulmul, Nicobar, and Jaypore, comfort meets style beautifully. We also spotlight Spring-Summer 2026 workwear trends, the skirt-and-skort resurgence, and a footwear edit that moves from ballerina sneakers to square-toe statements. Our jewellery feature takes a closer look at lab-grown diamonds, breaking down what you need to know before investing in them. Meanwhile, digital creator Vishnupriya and a roster of stylish influencers show us how to elevate summer basics with ease.

When it comes to lifestyle and food, expect to find desk organisers that make every day spaces feel curated, and keep an eye out for the best supermarkets, like Le Marché Select, that transform grocery shopping into an experience. Our food pages spotlight wholesome superfood bowls and brunch spots worth bookmarking, because summer plans are best made over good food.

We also spotlight the ever-evolving DLF retail landscape with two new destinations that are now open in Delhi NCR—DLF Midtown and DLF Summit Plaza.

AM IS THE NEW PM
WHY MORNING SKINCARE MATTERS MORE IN SUMMER

During summer months, glowing skin is not built overnight, it is protected every morning.

Summer is finally here, and while we all love the sunshine, longer days, and easy breezy plans, our skin often feels the heat first. High temperatures, humidity, pollution, and strong sun exposure can take a toll, leaving skin feeling greasy, dull, dehydrated, and even sun-damaged.

"While PM routines focus on repair, the AM routine is all about protection and prevention—cleaning the skin, locking in moisture, and shielding it from UV damage. Since most skin damage happens during the day, getting your morning routine right matters more than ever in summer," says Dr. Geetika. Thus, it is the AM routine that does heavy lifting. Think of it as your skin shield for the day ahead. From UV rays and heat to dust and pollution, your skin faces the most stress during daylight hours.

A good morning routine helps keep oil under control, locks in moisture, and protects the skin before damage happens. Using the right products, especially antioxidants and sunscreen, helps reduce long-term issues such as pigmentation, early ageing, and dullness. It also keeps the skin balanced and comfortable through hot summer days.

Hydration is essential, even if the skin feels oily. When skin lacks moisture, it can actually produce more oil. Lightweight serums and gel-based moisturisers help keep the skin fresh without feeling heavy. Sunscreen is non-negotiable. It not only prevents sunburn but also protects your skin's health, texture, and glow over time.

The strength of a strong AM routine lies in preventing problems before they even begin. Instead of repairing damage at night, it focuses on protecting the skin from the very start of the day.

At DLF Mall, you will find everything you need for a simple summer morning routine, gentle cleansers, light hydrating serums, and everyday sunscreens that feel easy on the skin, perfect for busy mornings that demand results without too many steps. ▲

TREND TALK

Dr. Geetika Srivastava
Dermatologist and founder, Influenz Clinic

Morning skincare is crucial in summer because it determines how your skin behaves all day. A gentle AHA or BHA cleanser helps control excess oil and keep pores clear, reducing breakouts. Moisturiser balances oil production—dehydrated skin actually becomes oilier. And sunscreen is essential, as most pigmentation and dullness are triggered by sun exposure. Daily SPF keeps skin clearer and brighter, over time.

AM routine for all skin types:
Oily/acne-prone: AHA/BHA cleanser, lightweight moisturiser, matte sunscreen.
Dry: Gentle cleanser, ceramide-rich moisturiser, fluid sunscreen.
Sensitive: Mild cleanser, soothing moisturiser, mineral or hybrid sunscreen.
No matter your skin type, the rule stays the same: protect, hydrate, and do not overload your skin.

CHEEKS IN BLOOM

Our guide to choosing the right formula for an effortless look this season.

Blush is redefining how we add colour and dimension to the face, with formulas that focus less on bold statements and more on considered application. With numerous options available, choosing the right one depends on how you like your makeup to look and feel on a sunny day. Liquid blushes suit those who prefer a sheer, skin-like flush that blends seamlessly. Cream textures offer soft warmth and flexibility, making application easy and buildable. Powder blush, refined with subtler pigments, provides definition while remaining light on the skin. Choosing the right format is less about trends and more about comfort. Make blush a part of your everyday routine rather than saving it for special occasions—an effortless touch to your look. ▲

Blush blindness reflects how makeup today has become more expressive and less rule bound. What was once considered too much is now worn with confidence, especially by Gen Z, who has turned earlier mockery into a form of self-expression. Mixing and layering shades have also become part of this shift, with lighter tones used to lift the face and deeper hues to add dimension. The focus is no longer on restraint, but on balance, allowing colour to feel personal, intentional, and effortlessly worn.

THE OFF-DUTY LOB
The lob is a shoulder-length haircut that feels relaxed and easy to maintain. It sits around the collarbone and has soft ends instead of sharp ones. In 2026, it is about a haircut that feels natural, not too done-up, and easy to wear every day. It is ideal if you want shorter hair but not ready to go very short.
IDEAL NECKLINES: Strapless, Crew Neck

THE BIG CHOP ENERGY

THE HOTTEST CHIC HAIR TRENDS

Thinking about going for a short mane? 2026 gives you all the reasons.

Hair trends come and go, but short hair is here to stay. If you are thinking of chopping your hair, or already said goodbye to your long lengths, 2026 is firmly on your side. This year, short hair is less about rules and more about personality. The mood is effortless, slightly undone, and confident. "Right now, short hair is moving away from anything overly styled. It is minimal, but not severe. Soft, but still directional. Micro bobs and softer bob variations feel very current because they move naturally. The goal is effortlessness, a cut that feels cinematic without feeling constructed," said Sonali Bhambri, Director-Master Franchise of TONI&GUY-North, West, and Central India. "If you are going short for the first time, start easy. A soft lob or a textured bob with a curtain fringe is ideal—they add shape and movement without feeling too drastic," she adds. From sharp bobs to playful pixies, these are the short haircut styles that are setting the tone for the year ahead. Think of this as a sign (and your guide) to going shorter and loving it. ▲

TREND TALK

Director-Master Franchise
TONI&GUY

Tips to keep in mind when opting for a short haircut

- For straight hair, precision is key. Clean, sharp structure works best, which is why a blunt or classic bob is the perfect choice; it looks polished and holds its shape beautifully.
- Curly and wavy hair needs structure, not control. The cut should follow the natural curl pattern while managing volume. A halo cut works well as it matches the head shape and lets curls fall naturally. Textured crops with soft layers remove heaviness while keeping definition, so the hair feels light and balanced.
- Short hair needs regular care to look its best. Most styles need a trim every four to six weeks. Using professional haircare like label.m helps keep the cut fresh and well-defined between salon visits.

THE BIXIE
The bixie is a mix of a pixie and a bob. It is short, fun, and full of movement. The sides and back are shorter, while the top has a bit more volume. Easy to style, it is ideal for anyone who wants short hair without a major commitment level.
BEST NECKLINES: Low Necks, Turtlenecks, Crew Necks

THE BOB CUT
Short hair this year begins with a modern classic. It is simple, stylish, and works for almost everyone. In 2026, bobs can be worn straight and neat or a little messy and relaxed. You can keep it sharp for a clean look or add soft waves for everyday wear. It is low-effort but high-impact.
IDEAL NECKLINES: Off-shoulder, V-neck, Scoop Neck

Image Courtesy: Looks Salora/Instagram

PIXIE CUT
Bold but effortless, the pixie cut leads 2026 trends. The new style is soft, slightly messy, and easy to manage. You do not need to style it much—just wash, dry, and go. Perfect for a bold look without spending hours on your hair.

COVER STORY

ALIA BHATT'S RELAXED DENIM REVOLUTION

Effortless, relaxed, and unmistakably cool. Alia Bhatt brings her laid-back denim aesthetic to Levi's' 'Behind Every Original' campaign.

Over the years, denim has stood the test of time, and it is safe to say that denim will always remain a classic. While there was a brief moment when the trend faded slightly and became largely limited to classic jeans, denim in 2026 is experiencing a strong revival. Think head-to-toe denim onesies, co-ord sets, denim dresses, bags, and even mules.

But how does denim feel new again? For Spring/Summer 2026, designers are experimenting with styles, among the most popular jean trends this season are boot-cut and light-wash denim. However, the denim miniskirt is making a comeback with a more grown-up approach, funky printed jeans are gaining popularity, and barrel jeans are quickly becoming a favourite, yet again.

In the recent past, Levi's has moved away from skinny jeans to baggy silhouettes, easy staples, and relaxed everyday dressing. Reflecting this shift the brand introduced Alia Bhatt as its new brand ambassador in 2025, with the story continuing the year with 'Behind Every Original', a global campaign that celebrates the mindset behind originality.

"I have always been a curious mind, wanting to know the why behind the what," shares Alia, "For me, it was never about checking every box or doing what was expected. I would rather be myself than anyone I am told to be. You do not wait for permission to shake things up—you make your own rules. Being original is messy, imperfect, and completely your own."

Her style is simple, but never boring. Think crisp white shirts paired with relaxed denim silhouettes—easy, effortless, and cool. There is a certain magnetism to Alia Bhatt's wardrobe and personal collection where nothing feels overdone, yet everything looks put together. A reminder that true style lies in restraint, and the quiet confidence to keep it that way.

For the Levi's 'Behind Every Original' campaign, the star was spotted in Levi's' relaxed fit featuring the Cinch Waist Jean, designed with an adjustable back detail that subtly defines the waist while maintaining a flattering wide-leg silhouette. The vibe leans towards an essential daily-wear ensemble: a loosely fitted white T-shirt paired with washed denim. Throw on a cropped trucker jacket and suddenly the outfit goes from basic to cool-girl approved—perfect for running around the city while still looking put together.

In another look, she styles the Loose Bootcut in a darker shade of blue with a matching belted vest, creating the illusion of a denim co-ord set. When paired with chunky small hoops, stacked bracelets and pumps, it becomes a winning look for summer brunches. The relaxed fit balances structure with ease, because denim is about attitude, not trends ▲

COVER STORY

DID YOU KNOW?

1. Indigo is the most common denim dye and was once imported from India.
2. Before fashion runways, jeans were built for labour. In the 19th century, they were designed for miners and workers who needed durable clothing.
3. Belt loops were introduced by Levi's in 1922 as an alternative to suspenders.
4. The fifth pocket refers to the left back pocket, added by Levi's in 1901. The small coin pocket has existed since the earliest designs.

Skirts and skorts step into the spotlight with sharper silhouettes and playful proportions.

This season, hemlines take on a renewed sense of direction. Moving beyond the predictable cuts, designers are experimenting with volume, structure, and unexpected layering to create silhouettes that feel both modern and versatile. From fluid midis and tailored minis to sport-inflected styles that blend ease with polish, the mood is confident and considered. Styling leans towards contrast, pairing crisp shirts with drop-waist shapes, oversized tees with sharp pleats, and sculpted blazers with abbreviated lengths. SUMMER UP

A SEASON OF 100 EFFORTLESS STYLES, CURATED FOR YOU

A season of easy fashion, fresh inspiration, and summer style made simple with DLF Malls Summer Up campaign or DLF Malls teams up with top stylists to make summer dressing effortless—and digital.

Summer arrives with a sense of ease—longer days, brighter skies, and a renewed desire to refresh not just our surroundings, but our wardrobes too. It is the season where heavy layers give way to breathable fabrics, where structured silhouettes soften into fluid forms, and where style feels lighter, freer, and more expressive.

Think airy linens, soft cottons, relaxed tailoring, and silhouettes that move with you. From flowy dresses and elevated everyday essentials to pastel hues and vibrant pops of colour, summer fashion is all about comfort meeting effortless sophistication.

This season, DLF Malls brings a fresh perspective to summer dressing with its much-anticipated Summer Up Campaign—an immersive celebration of 100 styles designed to make fashion discovery seamless, fun, and edgy.

For the first time, 100 distinct summer looks have been expertly curated by leading fashion stylists—Pranav Goswamy, Smridhi Sibal, and Jasbir Singh Mehta. Each look is thoughtfully put together to reflect versatility across occasions—be it everyday wear, work edits, vacation wardrobes or statement ensembles for social gatherings.

What sets Summer Up apart is its seamless blend of physical and digital retail. Through an innovative phygital experience powered by interactive flipbooks across the malls, customers can not only explore curated looks but also instantly access and shop them from the stores.

Starting from 10th April to 15th May across DLF Mall of India, DLF Promenade, and DLF Avenue, the campaign invites you to step into an immersive style journey. Designed as a living, interactive showcase, the installations allow you to not just see a look, but envision yourself in it.

Because when style is curated for you, getting dressed becomes not just easier—but far more exciting.

STYLE GUIDE

YOUR SUMMER BASICS, UPGRADED

Influencers share how they turn everyday summer outfits into standout looks.

Summer is a time to have fun with your clothing. Living in a city like Delhi-NCR, where the heat leaves little room for fuss, dressing naturally leans towards breathable fabrics, relaxed silhouettes, and outfits that feel as easy as they look and wear.

Flowy kurta dresses, lightweight summer dresses, linen chinos, relaxed shorts, and timeless combinations like a classic white top paired with baggy jeans become everyday heroes this season. These staples form the foundation of a versatile and endlessly wearable wardrobe. While the pieces may be basic, the way you style them makes all the difference. From thoughtful accessorising and the right footwear to playing with proportions, styling has the power to elevate even the most effortless outfit. This season, leading influencers decode their personal approach to summer dressing for DLF Malls TREND, sharing how they can turn everyday essentials into feel-good looks.

The White Dress

You can never go wrong with a white dress in summer, and Vridhhi Patwa, Mannat Sandhu, and Tiya Rao show how to make it stand out. Mannat Sandhu styles her white dress with brown suede boots for a warm pop of colour. Vridhhi Patwa keeps things interesting with a statement neckline and a criss-cross design that adds detail to her look. Tiya Rao adds drama with a fitted corset and a balloon-hem silhouette, making it perfect for evenings out.

Men, Add Some Colour

For the gent, summer fashion is all about light hues and easy fits. Pastels, linen pants, shorts, and co-ord sets work best in warm weather. Kush Sachdev shows how to wear colour confidently with a pastel pink look that feels fresh and modern. His two-tone co-ord set is ideal for those who like to experiment. For a more classic option, take cues from Anmol Trehan: white shorts paired with a pastel shirt make a simple, reliable summer choice.

Slogan Tees Are Back

This summer marks the return of slogan tees. Content creators are finding fresh ways to style them, making them feel anything but casual. From oversized slogan tees paired with baggy drop-waist pants to checked shorts and balloon silhouettes. Paired with statement accessories, layered jewellery, or standout footwear, they effortlessly bridge comfort and trend. "Summer styling is all about easy experimentation. Scarves are having a moment again. Wear them in your hair, style them as a top, or even knot one onto your bag. Do not shy away from mixing ethnic pieces with modern silhouettes. The best looks come from unexpected pairings. I have styled a saree blouse as a top here, showing how traditional pieces can easily translate into everyday summer fashion with a fresh feel—even your traditional wardrobe can easily adapt."

MAKE YOUR SUMMER BRIGHT AND WHITE

Bollywood's best-dressed have given white their stamp of approval.

White is having a main-character moment, and frankly, it is about time. After seasons filled with deep browns, moody blacks, and earthy neutrals, white feels like a breath of fresh air. It is light, soothing, and instantly makes every outfit feel more put-together.

For years in India, white was boxed into a colour for white weddings. That rule has quietly changed. From airport looks to red carpets, Bollywood's best-dressed have already embraced white in all forms, proving it is no longer off-limits. Whether for daytime or dramatic evening wear, white is officially the colour to wear this summer. The best part is that it suits everyone and works just as well during the day as it does at night.

Wearing white well is all about fabric and detail. Since the colour is simple, the texture makes the look interesting. Lace, crochet, ruffles, feathers, pearls, or sheer fabrics like organza add depth without overwhelming the look.

Whether styled casually or dressed up with layers and textures, white always leaves a lasting impression.

The colour also pairs perfectly with bold accessories. Statement jewellery, oversized sunglasses, a standout brooch, or a bright-coloured bag can instantly lift the outfit. For daytime, opt for a white dress, a lace or crochet top, or an easy co-ord set that feels comfortable, breezy, and summer-ready. For evenings or special events, a white gown or a sharp white pantsuit looks clean, elegant, and red-carpet-ready with minimal effort.

Men can keep things simple with white chinos and a linen T-shirt or shirt for the day. For evenings or formal events, a well-fitted white suit or even a three-piece tuxedo looks modern, sharp, and confident.

We take cues from Bollywood's best-dressed on how to add colour to our wardrobe. ▲

MIND OVER MINED

Tracing how lab-grown diamonds are reshaping modern jewellery narratives.

The story of the diamond has always been carefully constructed. For decades, it centred on rarity, romance, and reverence, shaped by the belief that scarcity defined value. The idea that worth must be extracted from the earth became so deeply ingrained that anything created above it felt, at best, secondary.

What was once considered an alternative is now part of a broader cultural shift. According to recent industry reports*, the India lab-grown diamond jewellery market is projected to grow at a CAGR of 14.8 per cent between 2026 and 2036, expanding from USD453.7 million to nearly USD1.8 billion. In a market historically shaped by inherited notions of value, this acceleration signals more than commercial growth; it reflects a redefinition of what constitutes modern luxury. Developed through decades of scientific refinement, lab-grown diamonds are chemically and optically identical to mined stones, differing only in origin. The distinction lies not in composition, but in context. In an era defined by information and intentionality, that long-held narrative is being reconsidered.

Today's consumer is informed and exacting. Transparency matters as much as brilliance. Industry surveys indicate that 70 per cent of Indian consumers under 40 are choosing lab-grown diamonds for ethical and environmental reasons, underscoring a generational shift towards conscious luxury. "Lab-grown diamonds have disrupted the mined diamond world worldwide—not quietly but emphatically," says Lisa Mukhedhar, co-founder of Aukera. The shift, she explains, is rooted in a compelling balance of quality and accessibility. "Consumers seek better design, quality, and value," she notes, reflecting expectations that extend well beyond a single demographic.

Also, the team at Palmonas—where lab-grown diamond collections are designed for the modern consumer—thinks the growing demand for lab-grown diamonds reflects a larger shift toward conscious luxury, where sustainability, transparency, and smart purchasing choices matter more than ever. While increased visibility through celebrities and influencers has accelerated interest in the category, brands are redefining what accessible fine jewellery can look like.

For years, lab-grown stones were discussed primarily in terms of cost. That lens now feels limiting. "What has changed most in the last two years is consumer awareness," Lisa says and continues, "This is a high-involvement category, and trust and value matter deeply." Consumers now are exploring larger carat weights and higher-grade stones with confidence. The diamond story, once dictated by scarcity, is now being rewritten. ▲

DID YOU KNOW?

- Born in the United States, lab-grown diamonds were first created in 1954 by General Electric after multiple scientific attempts dating back to 1797. Today, India is the second-largest producer and the United States is third.
- Diamonds grown in the laboratory can appear in every colour of the rainbow. From soft pastels to vivid hues like champagne, violet, and mint green, these once-rare shades are now more accessible in fine jewellery.
- Having the same brilliance and durability as mined stones, lab-grown diamonds are ideal heirloom pieces that can be worn daily and passed down through generations.

TREND TALK

Lisa Mukhedhar
Co-founder, Aukera Jewellery

"As consumers wake up to the value of lab-grown diamonds, we are seeing a shift in how they approach design. There is no longer a need to settle for a smaller or lower-quality stone when you can access a higher-quality 50-cent to one-carat diamond at a similar price point. Women are experimenting more, drawn not only to larger carat weights but also to better quality and overall value."

DESIGNED TO DECLUTTER

Smart home organisers that bring clarity and character to everyday spaces.

As homes double up as work zones and creative corners, thoughtful organisation has become essential. From sculpted desk trays and modular shelving to elegant table caddies and multi-purpose storage boxes, today's organisers blend function with refined design.

"The modern home does not separate beauty from function anymore. If it lives on your table every day, it deserves to look like it belongs there," notes Aditi Murarka, Co-founder of Nestasia.

Materials such as wood, metal, cane, and acrylic lend texture while keeping clutter at bay. Practical yet aesthetic, these pieces transform overlooked surfaces into composed, efficient, and visually pleasing places. ▲

TREND TALK

Vikash Gupta
Founder, Three Sixty

Modern homes are increasingly shaped by material-led storytelling and a desire for meaningful living. Natural surfaces such as marble, leather, and suede introduce tactile richness, while quilted detailing, croco-embossed textures, and antique brass accents bring warmth and character to contemporary interiors. These elements move beyond decoration, creating spaces that balance durability with emotional comfort. Open layouts are now complemented by quieter, more intimate zones designed for pause and reflection. As materials age—developing patina and individuality—homes begin to reflect personal narratives rather than passing trends. The focus has shifted towards craftsmanship, longevity, and authenticity, resulting in interiors that feel layered, lived-in, and quietly luxurious while remaining functional for modern lifestyles.

EAT THE RAINBOW

How superfood bowls are defining this warm season's light, healthy lifestyle shift.

This season's healthiest obsession? Superfood bowls have become a popular symbol of a lighter, more mindful way of living. Filled with colorful fruits, leafy greens, whole grains, seeds, and plant-based proteins, these bowls show a move toward fresh, energising meals that are nourishing but not heavy. They look great on Instagram, but also reflect a bigger focus on balance, hydration, and clean eating. More people are choosing seasonal produce and options they can customise to fit their own dietary needs, whether high-protein, vegan, or gluten-free. The main draw is their simplicity: wholesome ingredients combined into easy, satisfying meals that fit well with active, outdoor lifestyles. This trend is now mainstream, matching the growing desire to feel good from the inside out. Many restaurants in DLF Malls are joining in, offering carefully crafted superfood bowls that make healthy, seasonal eating both easy and appealing. ▲
